Practical guidelines for physiotherapy in Parkinson's disease

Practical guidelines for physiotherapy in Parkinson's disease is a new DVD, produced by the Association of Physiotherapists in Parkinson's Disease Europe (APPDE), which aims to promote research-based practice amongst physiotherapists with and without experience in treating people with Parkinson's. Designed to facilitate their decisions on the best treatment options throughout the different disease stages, this comprehensive new resource will help physiotherapists to plan treatments and find suitable exercises and strategies for each individual with Parkinson's. The DVD has been developed using the evidence-based clinical practice guidelines developed and supported by the Royal Dutch Society for Physical Therapy (KNGF).

Practical guidelines for physiotherapy in Parkinson's disease is currently available in English and Dutch, with French, German, Portuguese and Spanish translations to follow in the near future.

Purchase prices (including postage and packing) for European customers are:
